COURSE OVERVIEW

Training for confined space is a high risk occupation and one that requires specific training around awareness and management – governed by OHS and WHS compliance. When workers need to work in a confined space it is imperative that they are competent to minimise risks to themselves personally. Your business also has a duty of care and legal responsibility to ensure that staff are adequately trained around the risks involved.

Our Nationally Recognised Confined Space Training Courses are conducted face-to-face, are accepted in every State and can be delivered to on your worksite or public locations around the country (on request). With your Confined Space Training complete, you will be recognised by State regulators as having the necessary training to meet WHS and OHS regulations and codes of practice. As the AlertForce qualifications are competency-based and Nationally Recognised, the training can open many opportunities, increase skill sets and thereby ultimately increasing the value that staff can provide business.
